The Seal of Their Confidence and the Tribute of Their Gratitude---Why Doctor Copeland Covets No Distinction of Royalty---The Triumphs of the New Treatment---Opening the Ears of the Deaf and Curing the Seriously Sick.

DOCTOR COPELAND'S CORONET THE FAITH OF THE PEOPLE.

"If you were an Englishman instead of an American," said a skilful English surgeon, after he had investigated these cures of deafness, to Doctor Copeland, "you would be knighted for your achievement in the science of medicine. It's a pity you are not an Englishman.' Doctor Copeland opened the door of his consultation room and pointed to the corridor of his office, at the mement thronged—almost crowded—with patients. "That, sir," be said, "is all the knighthood I want. The seal of the confidence of the people, the tribute of their gratitude."

And no monarch and no Senate could bestow a more splendid distinction than the people are giving the Copeland physicians. From all over the continent, from the hundreds and thousands of happier homes they are sending to them their words of grateful testimony.

people are giving the Copeland physicians.

From all over the continent, from the most distant cities, they are coming to place themselves under their care. From place themselves under their care. From amusement, and each instrument has its own amusement, and each instrument has its own particular spot in his heart. Mr. Wilson had to give up playing his violins for a long time. For years they lay in their cases silent and dumb. Sovereigns may be dilatory or ungrate- It was only recently that the sonorous strains of an old violin were heard again in Mr. Wilson's Straightway as it was certified that these home. Mr. Wilson told the writer the foregoing physicians had indeed rolled away the and the following: "Deafness grew gradually stone from the tomb of silence, they has upon me for several years, and then a few years tened in overwhelming numbers to confer ago I got the grip, and that was the climax.

Had to Give Up Playing.
"Well, my deafness got so had that I had to give up playing my violins. I had to put them away." Here Mr. Wilson looked at two old Instruments that lay open on a qualit "Jenny Lind" plane. "When I would play the sound of the bow of the strings, although my ear was close to them, would seem as if the melody was down in the ceilar. There wasn't much satisfaction playing the violin and imagining you heard the tune down in the cellar. Sometimes I would be playing, and the tune would sound as if some one were playing the violin in the pected to get back my hearing, and I would all my troubles, rather be dead than be deaf."

Could Not Hear the Lecture. "I went to Chickering Hall here some time ago to hear a lecture on Theosophy by Claude Falls Wright, who was secretary to the late Madame Binvatsky, and do you know I couldn't near a HOME TREATMENT BY MAIL.

The system of treating patients who live at a distance has been so perfected that with the aid of the Copeland symptom blank and patients' report sheets, the percentage of cures by mall or home treatment is fully equal to the number of cures in the office.
